The Living Series

This living series with no end date is an ongoing project I took on to maintain and develop a creative headspace.

Coming from an artistic background it can be hard to snap out of a production drought - like an author with writers block.

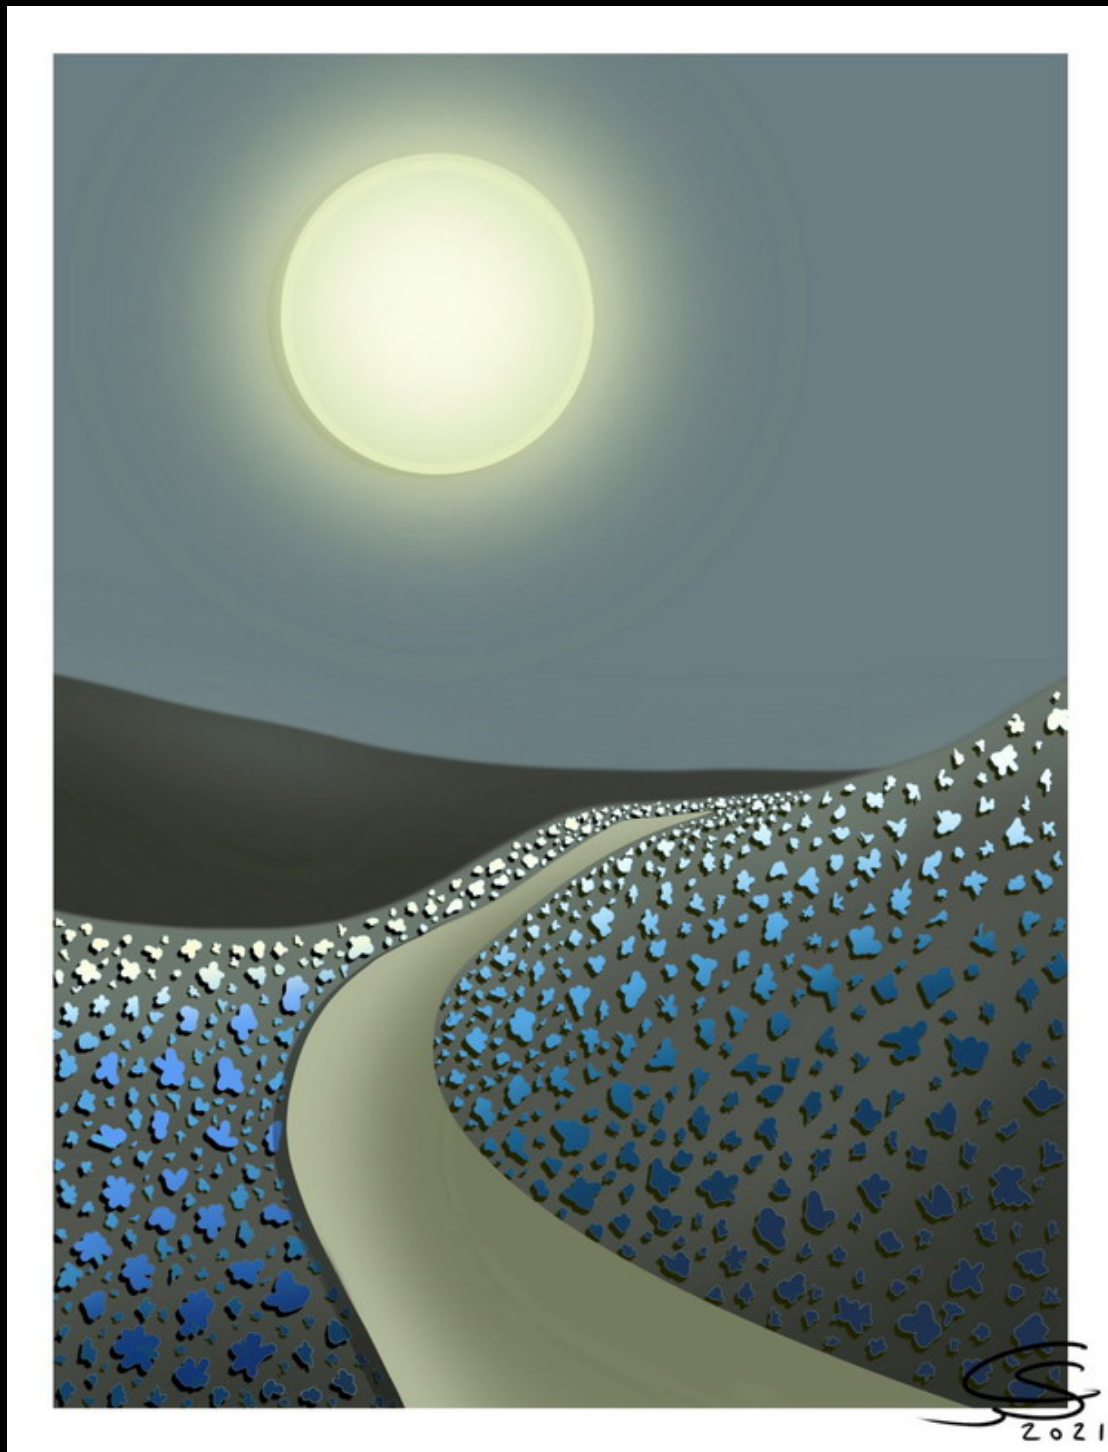

By maintaining this series I have found a period of balance and growth. Imagination and inspiration. This series has given me the chance to tap into this outlet every day and have no desire to stop.

2021

Each work is a digital drawing media. One work is drawn each day and shared publicly via LinkedIn, the first platform I have chosen to share this movement. While the works have no formal title, they are numbered for the day they were created.
