

Creativity Without Boundaries

I am a professional comic artist and illustrator from Milan, Italy.

I've always been deeply passionate about creating and imaging extraordinary stories and characters, they can throw you into a personal and limitless world; that is why I believe art has such a powerful impact.

It doesn't know the meaning of boundaries, ethnicities, languages, disabilities or social status; it doesn't judge or reject. The artistic world allows all individuals to express themselves and, at the same time, be inspired by others. It allows me to take a break from today's hectic times and dive into my intimate and safe space.

Moreover, there are no rules in regards to interpretation, there is no right or wrong; each of us is free to follow his own sensitivity.

That's why I believe being an artist should be accessible to everyone, whatever background or circumstance; every form of art and communication can be utilized to help people through their life journey, to grow, and to self-improve.

If you would like to get in touch with me and buy my art, please contact me.
