

A Deluge of Tears

A deluge of tears ran down your face,
What happened and what was the cause?
There's an over-full lake hidden deep inside,
That was stirred and made the water fall.

A chat opened up your Pandora's Box,
And locked up secrets were set free -
They're remembered 'forgotten' life events,
And sadness at loved ones now gone and missed,
They're regrets at neglected and unfulfilled deeds,
And for promises not kept but were broken.

There was the need of a genuine warm embrace,
From someone who cared about you,
Not needing to know the reasons or 'why',
But to help reduce the flow from inside,
One tear drop at a time - but not yet fulfilled.

©Copyright Julie Genner